Mother of Colton Harris-Moore Retains Hendricks & Lewis

Seattle -- Seattle law firm Hendricks & Lewis has announced that Pamela Kohler, the mother of Colton Harris-Moore, has retained the firm to assist and represent her in responding to the deluge of requests from the media for interviews regarding her son's arrest. In addition, Kohler has asked the firm to help her sort out unsolicited proposals from various entities wanting to discuss book and movie rights. Firm partner, O. Yale Lewis, Jr. will take the lead in representing Ms. Kohler.

Hendricks & Lewis has represented a number of high profile individuals regarding their publicity rights and entertainment law, including the family of Jimi Hendrix; Courtney Love and Frances Bean Cobain; George Clinton; radio personality, Delilah; and the widow of Buddy Holly, among others.
